Baron de Hirsch's Offer to Russia.

Baron de Hirsch was, when 50 years of age, engrossed in his many affairs. He stopped, to the surprise of every one, in his midcareer, he marshaled his resources and turned his active brain and tireless energy to the problem of reclaiming his suffering coreligionists from humiliation worse than slavery, from starvation and destruction. His first move was to offer to the czar, through this same chief of the holy synod, 50,000,000 francs for education in Russia, to be applied without distinction of creed or race, hoping that the dissemination of education, mechanical and mental, would in the end induce a better condition, from the lowest to the highest of the czar's subjects. But Russian autocracy was framing laws to limit, not to extend, the advantages of education and rejected the munificent offer unless Baron de Hirsch would remove his conditions and permit the expenditure to be made as the czar and his minister saw fit. But Baron de Hirsch was too well acquainted with Russian officials to part with his money in order to line the pockets and adorn the palaces of the persecuting Russian ministers of state.—Hon. Oscar S. Straus in Forum.

Dick's Brilliant Scheme.
Dick had no father, and occasionally the fact worried him. One day his mother fell ill and some one incautiously commented on the sad state of affairs if his mother, too, should die. Dick said nothing, but he kept up a great thinking. When his mother was quite well again, one night at dinner Dick, who was 7 years old, suddenly broke the silence with the question, "Mamma, why don't you marry again?" "When the laugh which this unexpected query raised had subsided, his mother asked Dick why he wanted her to marry. "Well," was his slow response, showing that he had carefully thought it all out, "then I'd have a papa, and if you did he could marry another lady and she'd be my mamma, and so I'd always have a papa and mamma." And then Dick looked grieving because his family all laughed harder than he had before at this continuous parent arrangement of his.—New York Times.The Origin of a Fad.
A young artist whose tendency toward open air effects was so strong that he always wore his shirt open at the neck had painted a landscape that, for fidelity to nature, was almost as good as a photograph.

It was a thing any one could admire, which proved its great commercial value. Unfortunately, as the artist turned to wipe his brushes, an aged, dissatisfied with her faithful representation in the picture, switched her tail across the canvas, utterly commingling the colors. The artist was about to commit suicide when a friend approached him. Gazing at the canvas, the latter opened wide his eyes. Then he placed his hand solemnly on the artist's shoulder. "My boy," he said, "it's the hit of your life!"

The friend was a heavy advertiser, and thus the poster came into being.—New York Journal.

The Name of the Vatican.
The Mons Vaticanus is sometimes said to have received its name from vaticinium, an oracle or prophecy, for tradition says that Numa chose the Vatican hill as a sacred place from which to declare to the people the messages he received from the gods. It is not, however, one of the seven hills on which ancient Rome was built, but forms a part of the ridge beginning with the Janiculum and ending with Monte Mario, all of which was outside the ancient limits of the city. In our day the name is applied only to the immense pontifical palace adjacent to and connected with the basilica of St. Peter's.—F. Marston Crawford in Century.Test the Trick.

The naturalists declare that the feathers of birds are simply modified hairs.

Pope made $5,520 by his "Odyssey," on which he worked alone. By his "Odyssey," after paying Broome and Fenton, his assistants, he made about $3,500. To Broome and Fenton he paid $50 for each book. Broome did eight books, Fenton did four. I would be pleased to translate the "Odyssey" at the rate of $50 a book—that is, for $1,800 altogether. A better price is not likely to be got today, and I have known a much smaller price offered. Pope got far more—$3,500 for 13 books—but that was because of his name. Broome and Fenton were not likely to get more than they did in open market, and no publisher would offer so much to ordinary men of letters today. If the poet laureate, even, produced a translation of Homer tomorrow, I doubt if he would be offered $3,500. Perhaps Lord Tennyson might have secured that sum, for his name and fame were justly great in the land.—Longman's Magazine.

Grateful Women Write Us Letters.

From every corner of the country come thankful letters written by those who have been lifted into cheerful, vigorous, healthy strength by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.
Thousands on thousands of women have been relieved of the nerve-racking drag of weakness and pain.
They have been made better wives and better mothers by having perfect health restored, and without the humiliating exposure of examinations so generally insisted on by physicians.
The stereotyped treatment by "local applications" is seldom necessary, and there is no reason why modest, sensitive women need submit to them.Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is of purely vegetable composition and is perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. It exerts a wonderful soothing, healing and strengthening power over woman's delicate organism. It is an invigorating tonic for the whole system, and is almost an infallible specific for the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of woman.
To these causes may be traced the trouble of tired, nervous, irritable, worn-out women. Careless, easy-going doctors frequently treat their women patients for biliousness, nervousness, dyspepsia, liver or kidney troubles, when the real sickness is in the organs distinctly feminine, and no help can come till they are made perfectly strong and healthy in both structure and function which is brought about in due time, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.
Prescribed for 30 years by Dr. Pierce.

GOLD STANDARD COUNTRIES.

The gold standard papers reluctantly admit that Mexico is more prosperous than the United States, but they contend that though it is on a silver basis wages are lower than in the United States. Senator Romero, the Mexican Minister at Washington, says that an American workman will do from two to five times as much work in a given time as a Mexican peon, consequently labor is better paid in Mexico than in the United States.

Now how is labor remunerated in gold standard countries? England has been on a single gold standard basis for many years. Did laborers get higher wages in Great Britain than in the United States when this country was on a bimetallic basis? Germany established the single gold standard at the close of the Franco-Prussian war to make it more difficult for the French to pay the indemnity. It has therefore been on a single gold standard basis about 26 years. Have workmen in that country been paid higher wages than in the United States? Ask those who left Great Britain and Germany and came to the United States to make homes for themselves and become citizens of this Republic and they invariably answer no.

Again the gold standard advocates tell us that money is abundant and cheap in the United States at the present time compared with what it was before silver was demonetized, that it can be had at 6 per cent per annum on good security. There has not been a time for very many years that money could not be had in London at very low interest. Money was cheap, as our gold friends say, yet it was not a desirable country for a poor man. Money is not cheap at any rate of interest when it takes a week's labor of an able-bodied man or the product of an acre of land to get a ten dollar piece.

The fact is, when interest is low, or as our gold friends say, money is cheap, it costs more labor, or the products of labor, to get a dollar, than when interest is higher, or as our gold friends would say, money is dear. Today with low interest money is higher in the United States than it has been in thirty-six years and the business and industrial depression is worse than it ever has been.

MORE ABOUT FUSION.

Two communications from gentlemen who supported the Populist ticket two years ago on the subject of fusion appear in the JOURNAL this morning. They differ somewhat and while both prefer Watson to Sewall one favors fusion of all parties on a Bryan and Sewall combination, while the other seemingly would risk the defeat of Bryan rather than lose a vote to Watson.

Regarding the nomination of Bryan and Watson at the Populist Convention the editor of the JOURNAL in an article in yesterday's paper stated what he believed to be the facts and what he is prepared to substantiate by the published report of the proceedings of the convention. There were two candidates for President and on the first ballot Bryan received 1,042 votes to 312 for Norton. For Vice President there were placed in nomination Messrs. Skinner, Watson, Sewall, Burkitt, Minnie and Page. The roll call of States was alphabetically arranged and when Texas was reached it was apparent that Watson had a majority of the votes and a motion to make his nomination unanimous was made and carried. Then the lights went out and "bedlam broke loose," as the correspondent states, but that does not disprove what the JOURNAL said.

So far as this writer is concerned he does not care whether Mr. Sewall or Mr. Watson is Vice President, but he will not knowingly be a party to any combination that will endanger a vote for Mr. Bryan to secure a vote for either Sewall or Watson.

HARDLY THE MAN.

One peculiar feature of the campaign is that men who are worth nothing—who have not the ability to keep a dollar after they once get it—are among the noisiest financial theorists of the day. They flatter themselves that they know how to provide the nation with money, and plenty of it. A man that is a rambling wreck of poverty, because of his inability to manage his own finances, is hardly the man to direct the finances of 70,000,000 of people.

The above from the Evening Gazette, which pretends to favor Mr. Hanna, Mr. McKinley, and submission to foreign dictation, is "the most unkindliest out of all." Mr. McKinley, no doubt, was uppermost in the mind of the Gazette when the article was written. It knows that as a business man he was a flat failure and that he is in the hands of a syndicate, of which Mr. Hanna is the head, that took up $118,000 of his notes and now asks the people to make him President, so that they can get their money with interest in gold coins or Federal appointments. The man who in his letter of acceptance, penned such silly stuff about coins made by the Government from metal which it purchased, and similar coins made by the Government for the people, could not be expected to succeed in any kind of business and is unfit for President of the United States.

BRYAN AND THE CHINESE.

Unable to refute the logical and comprehensive statements of W. J. Bryan on the financial question the hirelings of the gold syndicate on this coast attempt to create a prejudice against him by misrepresenting his position on the Chinese question. April 4, 1892, when the ayes and noes were demanded on the Geary bill, in the House of Representatives, Bryan and 178 others voted for the bill against 143 noes. The bill was modified in the Senate and returned to the House, where its important features were restored, and on May 4, 1892, Bryan and 185 others voted for the bill as reported by the conference, and as it finally passed both Houses.

Of course the syndicate papers of this State, which gave prominence to the falsehood that Bryan was opposed to the Geary bill, will not correct the misstatement, as that would be too manly an act for Mr. Hanna to tolerate.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

Joseph Oroos was hanged at Pittsburg, Pa., yesterday for the murder of Teresa Boback in January last.

Bets are made that 30,000 visitors will attend the Grand Army encampment parade at St. Paul to-day.

The car works at Madison, Ill., are closed and half the workmen of the place are thrown out of employment.

A part of the Equitable Powder Works at Altam, Ill., were blown up yesterday morning. The shock was felt for twenty miles and three lives were lost.

Postmaster W. C. Cremerman at Boone, Iowa, is $3,000 short in his accounts. He faltered when the shortage was discovered and confessed that he had to pay a large sum for the office.

The Rothschilds through an exploration company of London have engaged in mining in Southern Oregon. They have purchased a mine at Lucky Bar in the Blue River district. The gold is free milling ore.

The California Powder Works near Pinole blew up yesterday, and four white men and eight Chinese were killed. A fire started which threatened Hercules Station and Rodeo, but it was under control before it reached the villages.

The Knights of Pythias swarmed into Minneapolis yesterday on delayed trains in divisions and battalions and brigades. The ceremony of transferring command was performed and addresses were delivered by prominent members of the order.

The Banca Bulesse of Brooklyn, N. Y., was found closed yesterday. The keys of the building were given to the police, who found the safe open and empty. The proprietors, Pietro Mallo & Son, have left and the Italians say they had $50,000 on deposit in the bank.

At the first session of the Irish National Convention at Dublin yesterday about 700 delegates were present and 1,000 more were expected. It was suggested that a committee be appointed to attempt to get all to unite under one leader. Charles Dillon was of the opinion that success was assured.

The Welsh Eisteddfod festival is being held at Denver and the Mormon Tabernacle Choir of 410 persons is in attendance from Salt Lake. The address of welcome was delivered by Josiah Hughes, President, and a welcome was also extended by Governor McIntire and Mayor McMurray.

The body of Charles Perry has been found in a shaft between Kirbyville, Oregon, and Crescent City, Cal. Perry had been employed at the Brown Smelter at Waldo, and when the works closed last Spring he was induced by a man named Neelson to go with him to a supposed rich placer claim about 20 miles from Waldo. A few days afterwards Neelson appeared at Payne's Station and offered Perry's watch for sale. As nothing was heard from Perry, suspicions were aroused and the sheriffs of Del Norte county, California, and of Josephine county, Oregon, followed a clue and after five months' search have found the body of the missing man. Whether Neelson has been arrested or not has not been ascertained.

Baths in Russia.

Filthy as Russia is, the filthiest houses in the country are those reserved for the public baths. Gloomy buildings always, low are the Englishmen who could admit to the atmosphere of them for a few minutes. But the Russian revels in them. Taking his ease upon a bench, he watches the whole room filled with a steamy vapor, and in this steam he basks until he feels he has had full value for his money. An attendant then throws a few buckets of cold water over him, and he goes his way a happy, but it must be admitted, still a filthy man.—St. Petersburg Correspondence.

Lemons Used as Soap.

Lemons are used for soap in many countries where they grow. When the men and women of the West Indies want to wash their hands, they squeeze the juice of a lemon over them briskly in water until they are clean.

Free Telegraphing.

In Germany it is the privilege of the kaiser and kaiserin to telegraph as much as they like in their own country free of expense. This privilege also extends to the dowager empress. Foreign telegrams are, however, paid for at the ordinary rate.

A WOMAN'S LOVE.

She Saved Her Arm to the Surgeon's Knife for Her Husband's Benefit.

The keen stroke of the surgeon's blade along the slender nerve, shooting currents of agony to every fiber and torturing every muscle, causes the physically bravest of us to quail, even when it is vitally necessary to undergo the pain, and something like Spartan courage is needed when one voluntarily goes through with the experience solely for another's sake.

Dr. Jamnigan tells a story, and it is out of his own professional experience, that has for its heroine a woman who did this bravely unselfish thing. Her husband's arm had been crushed in the machinery. The hard folds of muscle had been flattened, and the bone had been crushed. The arm, bruised and discolored, was bad enough to look upon, but it gave no indication of the excruciating torture of pain the man had to undergo. It was thought at first by the doctors that his arm would have to come off—the good right arm that supported the brave wife who stood by his side and the serious, anxious faced children who stood looking on. He begged them to save his arm, and his wife begged them, and fortunately the condition of the case permitted them to.

But the arm did not heal. The skin sloughed away from the wounded surface and left it raw and sore. The doctors saw that it was necessary to graft portions of skin to the service to bring about a cure. They told the sick man of it, and they bared his side to cut off the strips of skin to put over the raw arm.

The blade flashed into the man's side, the blood spurted out, and with a moan the man fell over in a faint, sickened by the pain. His wife had been watching, her sympathetic heart touched to its depths by the sight of her husband's suffering.

"Doctor, don't do that again," she begged. "Don't cut him any more. He is too weak and has suffered too much. Cut it off me. Won't that do?"

The doctors told her that it would. She coolly bared her arm and told them she was ready. The razor edged blade sank into the flesh and went ripping down, followed by a tiny fountain of blood. She did not wince. Dexterously, expertly, the doctors slit out a piece of skin and grafted it over the man's arm. Another and another piece was cut out until more than a dozen had been removed, and all the while the Spartan woman remained standing watching the swift flash of the knife, the springing of the warm blood, and the sickening spectacle without shrinking once.

The husband's arm, grafted over with skin taken from his wife's arm, is now well, and the arm of the brave woman is fast healing up, leaving many long scars, that will ever bear evidence to the heroism of her love.—Atlanta Constitution.

Hard to Wait.

"It is so hard to wait," she thought. She was but 18 and betrothed. When she was 20, they would let her wed.

And so she stood by the window this April day, the tears in her blue eyes.

"It is so hard to wait, grandpa," she said.

He was eighty and eight. Close to the grate fire he sat and beamed into its depths.

"It is so hard to wait," he thought. He had been waiting these many years, yet God was not ready for him.

And as he looked into the she he smiled.

The girl at the window sighed. Two tears rolled slowly down her cheeks.

She looked at the hurrying world, at the crowded street at her feet.

The old man was content to look into his fire. He had seen the hurrying world.

The girl at the window watched a busy wren building a nest. Again she sighed. Down the street a hand organ was playing a waltz.

The tears started afresh in the young girl's eyes as she looked at the world through her window.

And a patient smile still played about the face of the old man as he nodded at the great fire.

"It is so hard to wait," he said softly.

"It is so hard to wait," she sighed.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system; which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed, everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

MORE ABOUT FUSION.

Some Matters of Fact Yet of Little Importance.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—In your editorial of to-day you do not quite agree to the plan of fusion suggested by me and give several reasons for dissenting. Among other reasons that you give is that "none of the silver Republicans and none of the Democrats prefer Watson to Sewall. To do the fair thing, therefore, as the Populists and Democrats in Nevada do not concede everything to the dominant party as the minority faction did in Oregon, is to give the Populists an elector, the Democrats an elector and the Silver party an elector and consolidate the Bryan vote of the State on one electoral ticket."

Mr. Editor, although you do not say so, yet I infer that you mean that the Democratic and Silver party electors will be for Bryan and Sewall, and the Populist elector will be for Bryan and Watson. Under this basis of fusion Watson's chance of being elected Vice President is as remote as though he had never been nominated, and the invitation to the Populists to accede to such a fusion is to ask them to throw their candidate for Vice President overboard and sail into port under Sewall's flag.

As you seem to convey the idea that the silver Republicans and Democrats prefer Sewall to Watson and as you have Sewall's name at the head of your paper I infer that you also prefer Sewall to Watson, and perhaps can give the reason why the silver Republicans, Democrats and Silver party leaders prefer Sewall to Watson. I must confess however that in conversing with individual members of the political parties you name I have failed to discover the unanimity for Sewall ascribed to him, but have discovered a very strong sentiment in favor of Watson.

Your assertion that Mr. Bryan received a larger vote in the Populist Convention on the first ballot than was given to Mr. Watson is slightly open to criticism. I do not like to split hairs over the details of fusion, but J. B. McCullough, who represented Nevada at the Populist National Convention, informs me that Watson's nomination was made unanimous before the first ballot was announced. There was not a dissenting vote and the guidons of every State and Territory including Alaska was in line. The enthusiasm knew no bounds and for fifteen minutes bedlam reigned supreme. As Mr. Bryan lacked upwards of three hundred votes of receiving unanimous endorsement, shows that you have been misinformed about the doings of the Populist Convention.

In conclusion I wish to say a few words in favor of Bryan and Watson and give a few reasons why I consider Watson a much better running mate for Bryan than Sewall. Mr. Bryan has advocated more Populist measures than any man in public life that still calls himself a Democrat. He is a strong advocate of a graduated income tax, postal savings banks and the issuance of a full legal tender currency to be put in circulation through internal improvement. This latter is one of the best methods ever devised to bring prosperity, and to show that Bryan believes in it I will quote from his speech on the Nicaragua canal bill which he introduced in the House on May 16, 1894. A few days after introducing this bill, which proposed an issue of $70,000,000 of greenbacks to be legal tender and to be in every respect the equal of all other money issued by the Government. He said: "If it is said that we must institute banks of issue in order to put money into circulation I answer that there is a better way. The issue of the money by the Government directly to the people gives us a safer money and saves to the people as a whole the profit arising from its issue. When a bank issues money you must pay the market rate of interest in order to get it, but when the Government issues money the people save the interest if the money is afterward called in, and they save the principal if the money is kept in circulation." I could quote further from his speeches and show where he specified how millions could be expended in the construction of ship canals to connect the lakes on our northern boundary with the navigable rivers that flow to the southward, but space will not permit.

Watson is in perfect harmony with Bryan on the issue of money and getting it in circulation without borrowing it. He is as sound as Bryan on the railroad question and on subsidies for ships. If elected he would not be hampered with pecuniary interests that might sway his judgment in such matters as the enforcement of the interstate commerce law and the law governing national banks. On the other hand Mr. Sewall is a large ship owner and an advocate of subsidies and discriminating duties for American vessels. He is a large stockholder and director in some twelve or fifteen railroad corporations and is peculiarly affected by the enforcement of the Interstate Commerce law. He is a national bank president and doubtless knows of the frequent violations of United States laws by those institutions. He is a multi-millionaire whose shekels were rapidly multiplied during that period of railroad stock watering and over bonding in the early seventies.

Mr. Editor, these are a few of the reasons why the Populist Convention thought Mr. Sewall was not a good running mate for Bryan and they nominated Mr. Watson. If any of the champions of Mr. Sewall can show why they think he is a better mate for Bryan than Watson we would like to hear from them. Geo. E. Fickham.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

SUGGESTIONS AS TO FUSION.

What a Free Coinage Populist Says on the Subject.

RENO, Sept. 1, 1896

EDITOR STATE JOURNAL:—There can be no valid objections to the Democrats or any other party keeping up its organization, if they have a legal one, and if not, to organizing. Fusion can easily be accomplished, if the Silver party and the Democratic party so desire, with honor to both and without friction, and each maintain separate organizations, thus: Let the Elko Convention appoint a committee to confer with any committee from the Democratic or any other party that may meet there and agree upon three electors who are known to be for Bryan and Sewall and report them to the convention. If satisfactory, let the convention nominate them and certify the names to the Secretary of State as the nominees of the Silver party. Let the Democrats nominate the same electors and certify them as the nominees of the Democratic party. Then the tickets will appear substantially as follows on the official ballot:

For President: Democratic ticket.
W. J. Bryan.

For Vice President: Democratic ticket.
Arthur Sewall.

For President: Presidential Electors:
James Brown, John Jones, William Smith.

For Vice President: Presidential Electors:
James Brown, John Jones, William Smith.

Then each voter can take his choice of tickets and each vote will be counted for James Brown, John Jones and William Smith. There will be no swallowing of one party by the other unless voters so desire at the election. Each party can by arrangement with election boards ascertain the number of Silver party votes and of Democratic votes, and each party will know where it is at and whether it will have a standing to nominate by convention two years hence, and if the people swallow one party up by voting under the head of the other, as they have a right to do, the party swallowed will know the people have no use for it. Neither party can object to such an arrangement unless it fears it could not do the swallowing act.

This arrangement can be extended to the Populists if they are willing to come into it. The Populists may want to vote for Bryan and Watson and define fusion. If so, let them do as they think best, but it is certain that if either Sewall or Watson is elected it will be Sewall. I think they ought to unite as above indicated, for practically all Bryan is elected it will make no difference whether Sewall or Watson is elected. Personally I prefer Watson to Sewall, but I am not going off with any side shows this year, as I confess I did two years ago.

By fusing as above suggested each party will know whether it is a party or is simply used by designing men to play into the hands of some other party. If the other parties object to fusion on the above or some other reasonable basis I would suggest that the Silver party nominate its own ticket and elect it and let the other parties devote their time in trying to poll 3 per cent of the votes to keep their heads above water, for if either refuse to fuse on an honorable plan the people will swallow it out of existence.

I have no objection personally to Mr. Julien's plan published in the JOURNAL for, as I stated above, I prefer Watson to Sewall, but he cannot be elected and I cannot give McKinley and Hobart a share of my vote by supporting Bryan and Watson electors. But under the Julien plan no party could nominate two years hence except by petition, as there would be no means of determining how many votes any of the three parties cast at this election. Some one evidently would cast the 8 per cent and more, but which one? Could any claim that it cast the whole vote? It seems to me not one.

The Bryan Clubs to Consolidate.

A meeting of the Bryan and Sewall Democratic Club was held last night. A communication was received from the Bryan Club suggesting that as long as both were organized to accomplish the same end that action be taken to consolidate the clubs. The gentlemen composing the committee of the Bryan Club, viz: B. C. Shearer, Dr. S. C. Gibson and J. B. Williams, were present. A motion was made and adopted that the Chairman of the Bryan and Sewall Club appoint a similar committee to confer with the Bryan Club Committee on plans of unification. Chairman Stoddard appointed as such committee W. P. McLaughlin, Chas. Gilling and J. B. Caine. Immediately afterwards the joint committee met and organized by the election of W. P. McLaughlin as Chairman. After due consideration the joint committee formulated a plan of consolidation to be presented to a joint meeting of the two clubs.

It is evident from this action that the clubs will consolidate and form a large Bryan Club.

DOLLAR CATECHISM.

Pretty Effective Protection.

(From the American Dollar.)

Does the Government itself have any use for money?

Yes.

What for?

To purchase necessary supplies for its army, navy, postal service and to pay salaries, etc.

How much does the United States disburse annually for these things?

About $400,000,000.

Where does the Government obtain this money?

From the people.

How?

By taxation.

Where do the people get the money?

From the Government.

How?

By the sales of labor and material.

Does this Government in time of peace compel any of its subjects to supply either labor or goods, except of their own volition?

No, they do so voluntarily.

If the Government was to make one of these silver dollars and declare it to be good in the discharge of all public and private debts—which it has a constitutional right to do—do you suppose it would have any difficulty in securing men to sit in Congress?

None whatever. They would fall over each other in order to serve.

Do you suppose that the local trader would refuse to take that dollar in exchange for goods upon the Congressman's return?

No; of course he wouldn't.

Would the manufacturer refuse to take it for the goods now rotting in his warehouse?

No.

Would the laborer, who is hungry and naked, refuse to take it?

No.

Would the farmer refuse to take it for his unsalable produce?

No.

Would the Government refuse to take it for taxes?

No.

Who, then, would refuse to take it in exchange for goods or labor?

England.

What would the result be?

We would always have the dollar, and England would have its goods. Isn't that pretty effective protection.

THE COMING FAIR.

Matters connected with the coming State Fair are being pushed with vigor. There will be more attractions this year than ever and every hour of the whole week will furnish amusement to visitors as well as home people. A game of football between Reno, Truckee and Wadsworth teams on one day will be an exciting event. The night on the Truckee is sure to be a grand display. A glove contest of ten rounds by professionals will be a drawing card. The stereoscope pictures illustrating musical selections will be a feature and greater than all will be a practical demonstration of the cathode ray at the Pavilion by Prof. N. E. Wilson of the University and W. G. Caffrey, electrical engineer. This wonderful discovery in science will be exhibited at least three evenings of the week and is alone worth the price of a season ticket to the fair.

Special rates from all Nevada points and Northeastern California will be made and it is expected that the lowest round trip rate from San Francisco and Sacramento ever given will be arranged for that week. General Powning is pushing his plans with untiring energy and promises the greatest State Fair ever held in Nevada.

Mrs. J. G. Gauthier was reported very low yesterday with bilious fever. Drs. Phillips and Lewis were in consultation and in their opinion a change for the better must occur in a few hours or she could not recover.

Stephano Piretto was admitted to citizenship yesterday. Upon being questioned by Judge Cheney he answered promptly. The Judge asked him the question, "Who is the king of this country?" The answer came, "Cleveland." The applicant did not realize it at the moment, but he never came nearer telling the truth in his life.

Among those who called on Bryan at Cleveland, Ohio, yesterday were Judge S. O. Parks, a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1896, and a friend of President Lincoln, Judge MacMath, appointed Minister to Morocco by President Lincoln, Colonel J. F. Herrick and ex-Senator H. P. Hackney. When Bryan left for Columbus a large crowd escorted them to the train.

Violet Perfume.

Millions of violet, "sweeter than the lids of Juno's eyes," nestle at Grasse and Nies under the gray shadow of the orange groves, yet the 200,000 pounds of this flower sacrificed every year to the flower press are not sufficient for the toilet. The perfumer is glad to fall back on the intense violet odor of "Cassie, sweet to smell," for, sickly as its scent as when used alone, it gives the indispensable note to many bouquets and is longer available than the violet, the blossoms of Acacia farnesiana being successive, while those of its better known floral ally are quickly over.

There cannot be a greater contrast than that existing between the lowly tufts of the Parma violet and the tree 15 feet high, with its stem thick as a man's wrist and its branches 6 feet long. Yet the blossoms have the same characteristic odor. Casio, too, the flower farmer's latest crop, forms a fitting introduction to the violet harvest, occurring, as the former does, in November and December, while the purple shadow of the latter is not seen under the olives till the beginning of February. Both odors are obtained by the characteristic enfleurage system—pure, odorless lard being placed on sheets of glass and covered with flower petals.
 Forty or fifty of the trays are then piled on one another, till the lard is charged with their perfume, the flowers being changed from 80 to 40 times before the pomade is considered sufficiently scented.

Beaconsfield's Silence.

In 1875 Lord Beaconsfield paid his first and only visit to Longmont, and Lord Bath and afterward that he was "the dullest (the word, writes the canon in a subsequent letter, was the "most silent") guest he ever had in his house. He hardly ever spoke." Undoubtedly Lord Beaconsfield could be most agreeable when in the humor, but he needed apparently stimulus of congenial companionship or of some end. And was worth the effort. By all accounts, he was given to fits of taciturnity, and though he was known in his youth as a "most silent" and persistent talker it was impossible to watch his sphinxlike im-mobility in the house of commons, sitting with folded arms and seldom speaking, without feeling that silent meditation was more natural to him than speech and the turmoil of debate. And it seems to have been his own opinion. One of those who heard Lord Bath speak on the silence of his distinguished guest was Mr. Richard Doyle, the "Familiar" of "The Times." "I believe,"
 he said, "that Beaconsfield was more or less dumb for Disraeli, and, indeed,
 he told me as much. 'Curious,'
 he said, 'have forced me to do a great deal, but nature intended me to be a silent man.'"—Contemporary Review

The Thirteenth Went.
 Four ladies going eastward entered a train at the Bank of England. There were only three vacant seats. A gentleman instantly rose to allow the fourth lady to sit down. An elderly over-dressed man sitting close to the door began to complain that the bus was overcrowded and ordered the conductor with all natural remarks.

The conductor, having collected all fares from these inside, went to look after the outside passengers. Seeing this, the grumbler got out of the bus to obtain the services of a policeman for the purpose of removing the thirteen passengers. Presently he returned with an officer of the law. The constable carefully counted the passengers and declined to interfere, as the number was not in excess of that allowed.

The man, hearing this, became very angry, and, getting into the bus, called out:

"I'm the thirteenth, constable, I'm the thirteenth!"

"In that case," quietly replied the constable, "you must get out, as the bus is licensed to carry only 12 inside."

And, in spite of the man's remonstrances, he was removed, amid the roars of laughter from the other passengers.—London Standard.

Catherine Sinclair and Scott.
 There is a pretty little story told in the Dundee Advertiser concerning an aunt of the present archbishop of London and Sir Walter Scott. Catherine Sinclair, the lady in question, was the author of a number of works, which at one time were very popular, and one of which, "The Heart of the Matter," is still published by E. & J. B. in her original form, and is a very fine work.

A Bug Six Inches in Length.
 The island of Dominica is the home and natural habitat of the herculean beetle (Dynastes hercules), the very largest known species of the coleoptera or beetle family. Full grown specimens of this gigantic representative of the hard winged bug family average six inches in length from the tip of their pinchers to the termination of the wing covers. The specimen I have before me as I write is slightly smaller than the average Dynastes hercules. It has a long, black horn growing out of a head which is even darker than the horn itself. On its lower surface the horn is covered with a thick setting of gold colored bristles, which the entomologist say are used by the insect in capturing its prey. Another and shorter but more powerful horn grows out from beneath, the two forming a powerful pair of pinchers. The creature has six powerful legs, each armed with claws. The elytra or wing covers are of a dappled gray color and the under parts of the body black. Taken all together, it is a formidable creature, with strength sufficient to catch and hold a bird of the size of the English sparrow.

An Acid Proof Stopper.
 If you want a stopper for a bottle of acid or any substance that would naturally call for a glass stopper because of the danger that the cork would be eaten up by the contents of the bottle, take the cork and steep it in vaseline. It will then be impervious to acids of any kind,
 and no action of chemicals will decay
 it. It will, in fact, be as good for all purposes as a glass stopper.

In Luke's experiment he once found the following:

For your Protection.—Catarrh "Cure" or Tonic for Catarrh in liquid form to be taken internally, usually contain either Mercury or Iodine of Potassa, or both, which are injurious if too long taken. Catarrh is a local, not a blood disease, caused by direct change to cold or damp weather. It starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat.
 Glands in the head cause a excessive flow of mucus, and, if repeatedly neglected, the results of catarrh will follow, severe pain in the head, a roaring sound in the ears, bad breath, and oftentimes an offensive discharge. The remedy should be quick to allay inflammation and heal the membrane. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles and contains no mercury
 nor any injurious drug. Price, 60 cents
